Block 5 / Section 17 Denman Prospect

A Home with a clever design just jumps right out at you and this home certainly ticks that box. The façade is quality through and through and the clever use of materials to provide both contemporary looks and awesome styling sets this home apart.

The single level design with a small split provides an architectural statement and enhances an already terrific home and the large bedrooms for all and the provision of a children's wing separated from parents area will be appreciated as the family grows.

The high ceilings provide the extra style that takes this from great to extraordinary and the amenity offered by the family living area is enhanced by the more than generous alfresco running across the rear of the home.

Just when you think you have listed all the features of this home it reminds you that there is more to the home than most as it has not one but two entertaining spaces and the informal area with generous floor area for meals and family rooms plus an outstanding kitchen is just what you have been searching.
